
JASMIN MARTINEZ, M.A. ASSOCIATE CONSULTANT

Jasmin joined Vantage in 2017 through its Intern Program, where she assisted in the quality control of client deliverables, data management, and assessment preparation. As an associate consultant, Jasmin continues to hone her skills in individual assessment, client feedback administration, and leadership development. In both roles, she has enjoyed leveraging her research background through data analysis and interpretation. She also has experience consulting with nonprofit organizations to create team engagement plans.

Jasmin holds undergraduate degrees in Business Administration and Psychology from Aurora University. She also earned her Master's degree in Industrial/Organizational Psychology from Northern Illinois University, where she continues to work toward her Ph.D. During this journey, she has had the pleasure of instructing undergraduate classes in psychology as well as conducting research presented at various conferences. Jasmin is passionate about research that focuses on women's experiences in the workplace, workgroup dynamics, and diversity and inclusion.

Outside of work and studies, Jasmin enjoys writing, catching stand-up comedy with her husband, and training to run a half-marathon.

“...we are what we repeatedly do. Excellence, then, is not an act but a habit.”
